What does TankVac® do?

TankVac® is a self-cleaning system for your water tank.

When a standard water tank overflows, the excess water drains from the top of the tank. Unfortunately this means it's the fresh, richly oxygenated water which is removed first. TankVac® changes the flow of water and creates an automatic vacuum whenever your tank overflows.

This vacuum siphons the waste water from the base of the water tank, discharging it in such a powerful flow that the harmful sediment and bacterial colonies are extracted.

As the wastewater is purged from the water tank, it takes with it the organic materials that settle and grow on the bottom of your tank.

This unique patented system was developed in New Zealand, and tested and proven at the School of Engineering, University of Waikato in collaboration with microbiologists from Auckland University of Technology.
